The Improving Teaching Programme

ITP

Ignite will be facilitating the Improving Teacher Programme

The ITP provides teachers rated as 'requires improvement' with a set of skills and strategies which enables them to become consistently good. It is open to teachers from all phases who demonstrate the potential to deliver consistently good lessons.

Programme Structure

The programme runs over 5 weeks. It is delivered through face-to-face taught sessions, classroom observations and learning walks within the host school.

"It has made me take more risks in my planning and think outside the box"

What are the aims?

The core aims of the programme are to:

- Develop a common language to discuss teaching and learning
- Deepen understanding of key aspects of good teaching and learning
- Understand how to deliver consistently these in practice
- Raise performance in the classroom, by encouraging more thorough planning by challenging and engaging all students
- Respond to being coached in order to enhance performance.

What does it involve?

The initial stage of the programme poses the question 'what makes a good teacher?' Each session then has a different learning and teaching focus including engagement, challenge, starters, plenaries, questioning and differentiation. Staff will complete observations in our academy and teach a small groups of students during the last session.

Commitment?

The programme works best if schools are able to send three teachers on the same course, as practical school-based tasks are based on groups of three. You will also have to nominate an in school coach to support participants with post session challenges. Participants will need to have time in school to complete post-session tasks, to consolidate ideas from each session and apply them to their own context.
